Hennge

November 9, 2021

Dear Recruiter,

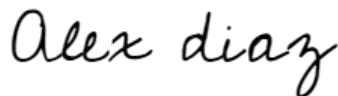

I am a developer making a career change from data analytics to software engineering. I realized I enjoyed building and maintaining applications that used data more than presenting the analytics. My recent academic and professional results showcase my passion for solving problems with code.

Currently, I tutor students of all ages. I must use clear and concise language to teach everything from basic OO programming to constructing and manipulating data structures. I have been recognized repeatedly while earning my master's in computer science. For example, Professor Joyner at GA Tech recognized my AI program as an exemplary project.

I am a passionate, life-long learner. I have applied to fulfill the role at Hennge because I believe Hennge is full of the most intelligent people in the industry. I hope to grow and continue to contribute to my team. To further illustrate my fit for your team, contact me at alejandrojsdiaz@outlook.com.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
